SPEEDWAY PRIZE CONSTIPATION LIGHT VOTE WILL

at Rate of 72 Miles an Hour.

Atlanta, Ga., November 7.—Joe Horan, going steadily at seventy-two miles an hour, in a Lozier car, to-day won the 250-mile speedway grand prize, together, with $5 0.00 in a page 10. together with $3,000 in cash. No.

won the 250-mile speedway grand prices, together with $3,000 in cash. No. 13, in letters two feet high, was affixed to R. V. Church's Simplex, and the number was regarded as a hoodoo by drivers and spectators.

When the big 13 began to swing around the track with the leaders in the first twenty-five miles, several other engines got balky and had to be stopped at the pits and coached into action. Raiph Mulford's Lozier sheared a pin on its cam rod, the delay putting it beyond the reach of the $3,00 L. Then No. 13 blew a tire, and straightway it appeared that they were nearly all blowing tires. Finally, after No. 13 had jumped the track on its fortieth mile, Louis Disbrow's Pope-Hartford chose the scene of this smash, hidden from the grandstand, to break down. from the grandstand, to break down.
Disbrow pushed his car through the same hole in the fence that 13 had made. This caused the true but misleading report that "Disbrow has gone through the fence," and for liften minites there was anxiety in learning the harmless manner in which Disbrow did Burman, driving a Marquette-Bulck, could not shake off the tire hoodoo, stopping just nine times with tires ripped off. After his two most dangerous rivals, Harroun and Dawson, had quit the track with engine trouble,

Cecil Spooner is an accomplished and attractive actress in her own peculiar way; she not only merits warm praise for her performance, but a most respectful how for having given every other character a chance. Although she wrote the piece, she does not in the least "hog the show," to use the relined expression of the stage. And the company was well worthy of her consideration. It was well balanced and thoroughly competent—so competent that it would be unfair to mention one without calling attention to all, and fack of space forbids that.

An Old Favorite.

For thirty years Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead" has amused and delighted thousands of playsoers, and it repeated its achievement last night at the Academy of Music.

There is nothing mysterious about the hold that this simple play of the simple life of simple country folk has on the people who patronize theatres. Denman Thompson did not possess any peculiar art when he wrote the play. He possessed what was probably far more essential—artlessness. When the play was given at the Academy of Music last night for the—well for more times that some of us wish to remember—it was this artlessness which kept us in our seats until the final curtain, and which made us laugh and cry with the characters behind the footlights. Si and Eph and Reuben and Tillie and, of course, Josh, and the Swanzy Band—they were all there, and it was homelike. Denman Thompson didn't write "The Old Homestead"; he lived it. And he simply put his life down on paper, hired a competent stage director, who secured competent actors, and there you are. That's why "The Old Homestead"; he lived it. And he simply put his life down on paper, hired a competent actors, and there you are. That's why "The Old Homestead"; he lived it. And he simply put his life down on paper, hired a competent actors, and there you are. That's why "The Old Homestead" has drawn money to the boy office for three decades, and that's why will continue to do the same thing forever and a day afterwards.

The company which presented the play was good all the way through Denman Thompson wasn't in the cast, however, but he wasn't missed, which is sufficient priase for the man who played Josh Whitcomb.

is sufficient praise for the man who played Josh Whitcomb.
So long as people remember the homes they used to live in, just so long will "The Old Homestead" draw patronage.

DEATH IN EACH HAND

Little Girl Trips Along With Two Palls of Miro-Glycerine.

Washington, Pa., November 7.—Totally ignorant of the danger that surrounded her, and under the impression that she was carrying water, elevenyear-old Mildred Anderson to-day tripped along, in each hand a pall of nitroglycerine, which had been prepared for shooting an oil well on the Cameron farm, near here. As she carelessly swing the palls half-a-dozen oil drillers stood breathloss a hundred yards away, fearing every moment to see the child hurled into eternity.

At a quiet command from her father, the child set the palls down, and was taken out of danger. The men, unnerved, suspended work for the day. Little Girl Trips Along With Two Palls of Nitro-Glycerine.

The situation is regarded by department officials as delicate, and their view of its seriousness is reflected in the reserve in which they discussed the matter pending the return of Secretary Knox.

FLOYD COUNTY'S DILEMMA

Republicans and Democrats There Will Vote for Different Districts.

Voting in Richmond and throughout the Third Cangressional District to-day is likely to be light Naturally so when there is no warm fight between rival candidates for office. The re-election of Representative John Lamb by a large majority is assured, and, while the votes of Richmond citizens will count as much for or against the proposed amendments to the Constitution posed amendments to the Constitution as will those in any other part of the as will those in any other part of the State, it is not believed that sufficient interest has been aroused in them to bring out a large number of electors.

City Chairman Miles M. Martin has issued an address to the Democrats of Richmond, urging them, as a matter of good citizenship, to go to the polls and vote for the nominee of the party primary, even though there is no danger of his defeat. It is not thought necessary to make a showing of workers at the polls.

candidate in the Fifth District.

This is the result of the action of the Legislature in taking Floyd from the Fifth District and putting it in the Sixth. This is one of the counties aiways relied upon for a large Republican majority, and the Fifth District G. O. P. did not like the change. So in 1908, taking the position that the shifting of the county was unconstitutional, the Republicans were instructed to disregard the fact that they were in the Sixth District and to vote for John M. Parsons, their party candidate in the Fifth. They did so, with the result that while Representative Carter Glass, from the Sixth, got the Democratic from the Sixth, got the Democratic vote of 398, his opponent, Mercer Hart

There was a disposition yesterday in this city to deprecate the attempt made in some quarters to class the proposed amendments to the Constitution as machine measures, speaking in a general sense. It is pointed out that some of the most earnest and most active opponents of the amendments are men who stand high in the councils of what is known as the "machine" in Virginia politics.

Is known as the matther in viginal politics.

The Times-Dispatch has instructed all its correspondents to report the vote on the amendments along with that for congressional candidates, and the paper will be ready to-night to make announcement of the situation in this regard and of the result if it can be brown.

TARIFF CONCESSIONS '

Canada and United States Take the First Step.

Ottawa, November 7.—The reciprocity commissioners representing the United States and Canada, in a two-hour discussion to-day, took the first steps toward formulating a schedule of tariff concessions, which it is believed will stimulate international commerce. While no definite announcement was made as to the course taker by the negotiations to-day, there was an apparent feeling of satisfaction among the commissioners and a belief that the work of reaching an amicable agreement will not prove difficult.

It is understood that Canada made a tentative suggestion of tariff reduction by the United States on the Dominion's natural products, at the same time offering concessions on some lines of manufactures, such as steel shapes and agricultural machinery.

The end came in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout before the American Athletic Club. Lewis was about fifteen pounds heavier than Nelson, and was the master of the fight at every stage.

Goal as Target.

For the second time during the present season the Tigers and the First Virginia Regiment football teams will clash at Broad Street Park this afternoon at 4 o'clock. These two teams have been at it for two years, each game resulting in a tie score, neither being able to cross the otherig goal line. As a matter of fact, the Tigers have not been scored on this season. Both teams are now in prime shape, and it is hoped that the game to-day will prove decisive.

Coach Calfee, of the regiment, states that his men are ready to do themselves proud. Practice has been going on every night, and some new plays, which are expected to fool the Tigers, have been evolved. The Tigers have by no means been idle. Every spare momnt has been occupied in practice in an endeavor to win to-day's game, It will be a battle royal, and neither team will have a walkover.
